Gender, Society, Social Policy

Degree conferred

Languages of study
Study in German

Commencement of studies
Commencement of studies in the Autumn Semester (September) or in the Spring Semester (February)

The master minor study programme or specialisation programme with a thematic focus on «Gender, Society, Social Policy» provides students with the theoretical and methodological foundations of gender studies and enables them to analyse gender relationships in their social and cultural context. For later professional practice, this means that students can critically follow and question social developments with regard to gender relations. They should also be able to understand and critically scrutinise research with regards to the category gender and be able to independently apply concepts of gender studies in their own scientific work.
